DESCRIPTION:

The three adjoining rowhouses are three stories high and located in the middle of a block of two-story rowhouses on the east side of Gilmor Street. The brick facades are covered with Formstone, including the modest cornice line. It appears likely that a larger and more elaborate cornice had been removed prior to the application of artificial stone. The window and door openings are slightly arched. The first floor openings are boarded, and the upper stories in 1529 are boarded. The second and third stories of 1531 and 1533 display a variety of sash, mostly one-over-one, but also a six-over-six and a one-over-six. Brick steps replace the original marble steps at each entrance.

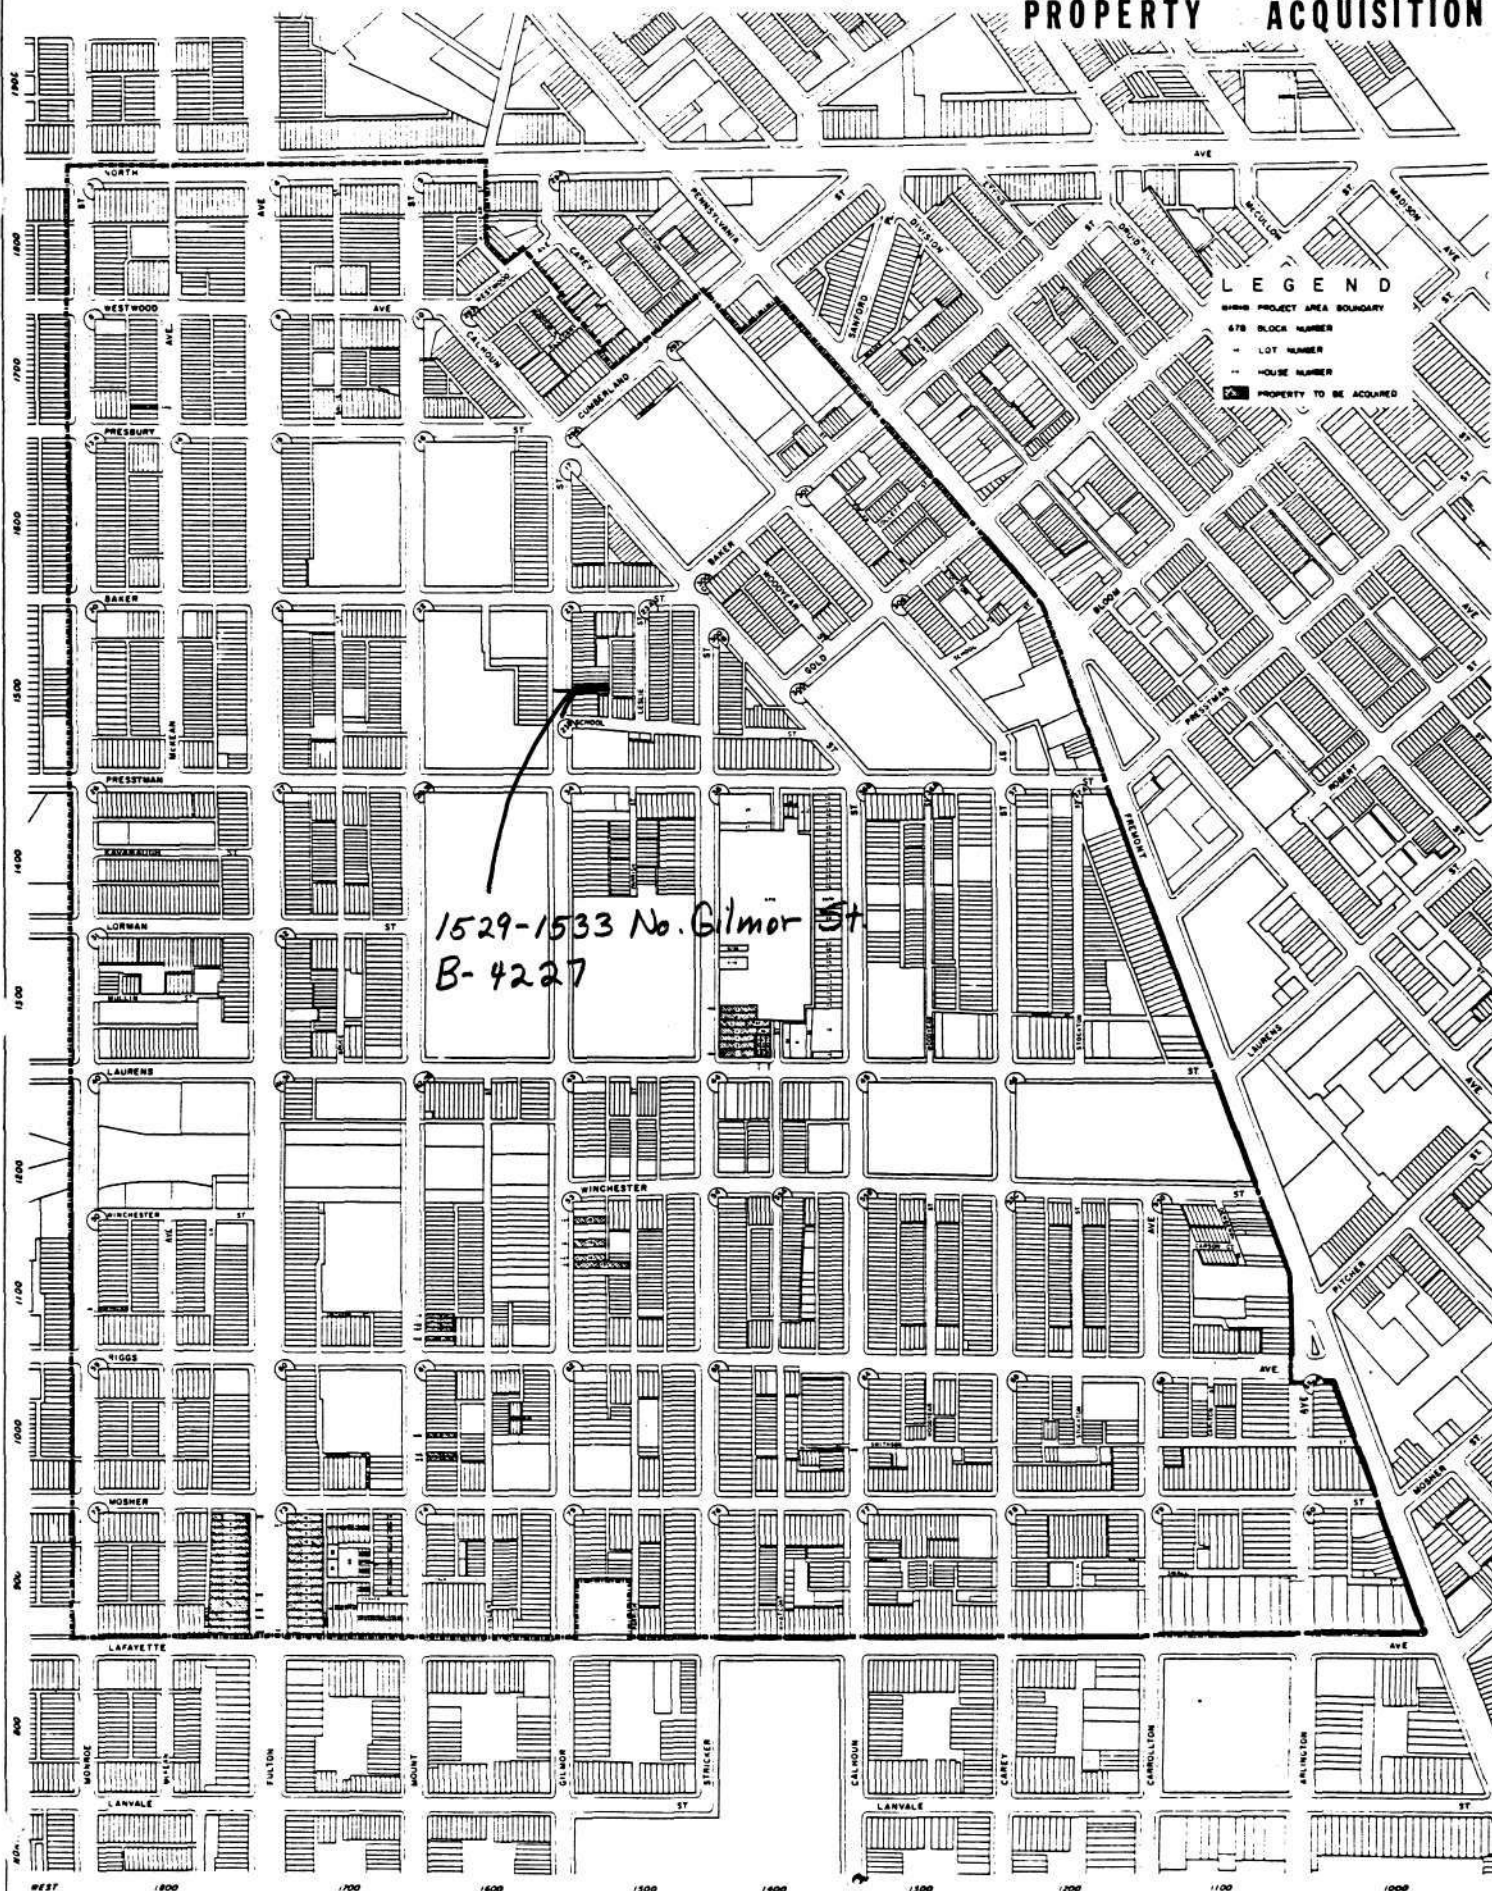

SIGNIFICANCE:

AREA: Architecture LEVEL: Local

The three rowhouses at 1529-1533 North Gilmor Street contribute to a potential historic district in the Sandtown-Winchester area. Although covered with Formstone and missing some elements, the general form of the late nineteenth century rowhouse is intact. The area was largely developed in the 1880's and 1890's during a period of intensive growth for Baltimore as a result of immigration and other demographic and political factors. (The Sandtown-Winchester planning area is currently being surveyed by the Commission for Historical and Architectural Preservation to identify the boundaries and significance of the potential historic district(s).)
